

For every dollar donated, Second Harvest Food Bank of NWNC is able to distribute seven nutritious meals to those in need of food assistance. Clyde Fitzgerald, Jr., Executive Director of Second Harvest Food Bank, noted that Vulcan's contribution will provide over 205,000 meals to needy individuals across the 18 counties served by Second Harvest. "Vulcan's long term support of our program has been tremendous. For the company to take the extra step and host such a unique event to raise much needed funds is an extraordinary gift. Our deepest appreciation goes out to Vulcan, its employees and business associates for caring for their community in this meaningful way."

Commenting on this year's events, Kim Duke, president of Mideast Division, noted "We are extremely pleased by the support from our employees, customers and friends for such a worthy cause. Nothing can be more meaningful than to provide school children with a meal so they can concentrate on their education rather than worrying if they will have something to eat that day. We are also appreciative to our major sponsors of this year's events who partnered with Vulcan to feed the hungry: Concrete Plants, Inc., Carolina CAT, Mellott-Metso, Linder Industrial Machinery Company, Carter Machinery, and Deep Earth Logic."
